THE SOCIAL SCIENCES

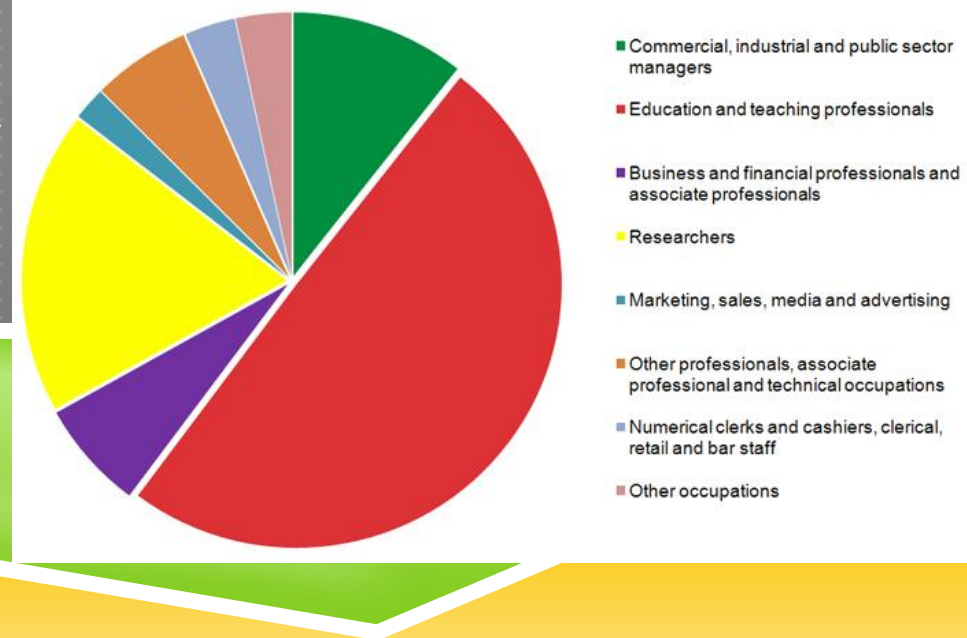

WHAT ARE THE SOCIAL SCIENCES?

How can we understand ourselves better? How can we learn to understand others? These are the questions most people ask themselves at one time or another. Social scientists, who also ask these important questions are committed to finding the answers. Taking a course in the Social Sciences will provide ideas and methods for understanding the forces that shape us as individuals in a social world. The central question you can keep in mind is: How can equity studies, family studies and anthropology, psychology and sociology help us understand ourselves as individual human beings and as members of society?

WHY THE SOCIAL SCIENCES?

Individual courses provide students with a foundation for a variety of possible post-secondary destinations: positions in the retail and service industries; college programs in community services (e.g. early childhood education, child and youth work, and developmental services work), creative endeavours (e.g. food preparation), or business (e.g., human resources); and university programs in fields such as anthropology, business studies, education, environmental studies, family and child studies, food and nutrition sciences, gender studies, health sciences, human resources, philosophy, psychology, religious studies, social work, and sociology.

GRADE 10- FOOD & NUTRITION (HFN2O)

GRADE 10- FOOD & NUTRITION (HFN2O)

This course focuses on guidelines for making nutritious food choices. Students will investigate factors that influence food choices, including beliefs, attitudes, current trends, traditional eating patterns, food-marketing strategies, and individual needs. Students will also explore the environmental impact of a variety of food choices at the local and global level. The course provides students with opportunities to develop food-preparation skills and introduces them to the use of social science research methods in the area of food and nutrition.

GRADE 10- EXPLORING FAMILY STUDIES (HIF2O)

GRADE 10- EXPLORING FAMILY STUDIES (HIF2O)

This course explores, within the context of families, some of the fundamental challenges people face: how to meet basic needs, how to relate to others, how to manage resources, and how to become responsible members of society. Students will explore adolescent development and will have opportunities to develop interpersonal, decision-making, and practical skills related to daily life. They will learn about the diverse ways in which families function in Canada and will use research skills as they explore topics related to individual and family needs and resources.

GRADE 11 - INTRO TO ANTHROPOLOGY, PSYCHOLOGY, & SOCIOLOGY (HSP3U)

GRADE 11- INTRO TO ANTHROPOLOGY, PSYCHOLOGY, & SOCIOLOGY (HSP3U)

This course provides students with opportunities to think critically about theories, questions, and issues related to anthropology, psychology, and sociology. Students will develop an understanding of the approaches and research methods used by social scientists. They will be given opportunities to explore theories from a variety of perspectives, to conduct social science research, and to become familiar with current thinking on a range of issues within the three disciplines.

GRADE 11- RAISING HEALTHY CHILDREN (HPC30)

GRADE 11 - RAISING HEALTHY CHILDREN (HPC3O)

This course focuses on the skills and knowledge parents, guardians, and caregivers need, with particular emphasis on maternal health, pregnancy, birth, and the early years of human development (birth to six years old). Through study and practical experience, students will learn how to meet the developmental needs of young children, communicate with them, and effectively guide their early behaviour. Students will develop their research skills through investigations related to caregiving and child rearing.

GRADE 11- WORLD RELIGIONS (HRT3M)

World Religions

GRADE 11- WORLD RELIGIONS (HRT3M)

This course provides students with opportunities to explore various world religions and belief traditions. Students will develop knowledge of the terms and concepts relevant to this area of study, will examine the ways in which religions and belief traditions meet various human needs, and will learn about the relationship between belief and action. They will examine sacred writings and teachings, consider how concepts of time and place influence different religions and belief traditions, and develop research and inquiry skills related to the study of human expressions of belief.

GRADE 12- CHALLENGE & CHANGE IN SOCIETY (HSB4U)

GRADE 12- CHALLENGE & CHANGE IN SOCIETY (HSB4U)

This course focuses on the use of social science theories, perspectives, and methodologies to investigate and explain shifts in knowledge, attitudes, beliefs, and behaviour and their impact on society. Students will critically analyse how and why cultural, social, and behavioural patterns change over time. They will explore the ideas of social theorists and use those ideas to analyse causes of and responses to challenges such as technological change, deviance, and global inequalities. Students will explore ways in which social science research methods can be used to study social change.

GRADE 12- HUMAN DEVELOPMENT THROUGHOUT THE LIFESPAN (HHG4M)

This course offers a multidisciplinary approach to the study of human development throughout the lifespan. Students will learn about a range of theoretical perspectives on human development. They will examine threats to healthy development as well as protective factors that promote resilience. Students will learn about physical, cognitive, and social-emotional development from the prenatal period through old age and will develop their research and inquiry skills by investigating issues related to human development.

GRADE 12- NUTRITION & HEALTH (HFA4U)

GRADE 12- NUTRITION & HEALTH (HFA4U)

This course examines the relationships between food, energy balance, and nutritional status; the nutritional needs of individuals at different stages of life; and the role of nutrition in health and disease. Students will evaluate nutrition-related trends and will determine how food choices can promote food security and environmental responsibility. Students will learn about healthy eating, expand their repertoire of food-preparation techniques, and develop their social science research skills by investigating issues related to nutrition and health.

GRADE 12- PHILOSOPHY: QUESTIONS & THEORIES (HZZ4U)

GRADE 12- PHILOSOPHY: QUESTIONS & THEORIES (HZT4U)

This course enables students to acquire an understanding of the nature of philosophy and philosophical reasoning skills and to develop and apply their knowledge and skills while exploring specialized branches of philosophy (the course will cover at least three of the following branches: metaphysics, ethics, epistemology, philosophy of science, social and political philosophy, aesthetics). Students will develop critical thinking and philosophical reasoning skills as they formulate and evaluate arguments related to a variety of philosophical questions and theories. They will also develop research and inquiry skills related to the study and practice of philosophy

GRADE 12- EQUITY & SOCIAL JUSTICE (HSE4M)

GRADE 12- EQUITY & SOCIAL JUSTICE (HSE4M)

This course enables students to develop an understanding of the theoretical, social, and historical underpinnings of various equity and social justice issues and to analyse strategies for bringing about positive social change. Students will learn about historical and contemporary equity and social justice issues in Canada and globally. They will explore power relations and the impact of a variety of factors on equity and social justice. Students will develop and apply research skills and will design and implement a social action initiative relating to an equity or social justice issue.

GRADE 12- FAMILIES IN CANADA (HHS4U)

GRADE 12- FAMILIES IN CANADA (HHS4U)

This course enables students to draw on sociological, psychological, and anthropological theories and research to analyse the development of individuals, intimate relationships, and family and parent-child relationships. Students will focus on issues and challenges facing individuals and families in Canada's diverse society. They will develop analytical tools that enable them to assess various factors affecting families and to consider policies and practices intended to support families in Canada. They will develop the investigative skills required to conduct and communicate the results of research on individuals, intimate relationships, and parent-child relationships.

FRENCH

WHY FRENCH?

Not only do many Canadians speak English, French or both languages – but bilingualism is an official government policy that is supervised by the Office of the Commissioner of Official Languages and protected by the Constitution.

Bilingualism and the labour market

Recruiters often see bilingualism as a sign of experience and education. Moreover, when two employees have equal skills, companies are more likely to promote a bilingual employee. According to a survey undertaken by Professor Chorney, bilingual employees are perceived as more sociable and more persevering (learning another language is no mean feat). As one employer interviewed by Chorney said, “having bilingual skills in a rapidly changing world made the employee much more flexible and more valuable to the company in their capacity to adapt.” Nearly a third of all the hiring managers contacted by CareerBuilder.com in 2006 claimed that they will recruit more bilingual employees. Similarly, a study by Canadian Heritage concluded that bilinguals can find a job and change jobs more easily than unilinguals. While all these things are also true of allophones (people whose first language is neither English nor French), the Canadian system favours those fluent in the official languages.

Thank
You

The image features the words "Thank You" written in a large, black, cursive script. The text is centered and surrounded by several short, black, radiating lines of varying lengths, giving it a sunburst or starburst effect. The background is a dark gray with a fine, light-colored dot pattern. At the bottom of the image, there is a decorative border consisting of a green trapezoidal shape and a yellow triangular shape, separated by a white line.
