Course Description

This course requires students to create and perform in dramatic presentations. Students will analyse, interpret, and perform dramatic works from various cultures and time periods. Students will research various acting styles and conventions that could be used in their presentations, and analyse the functions of playwrights, directors, actors, designers, technicians, and audiences. Credit Value: 1. Prerequisite: Drama, Grade 9 or 10, Open

Curriculum Strands

- Creating and Presenting
- Reflecting, Responding, and Analysing
- Foundations

Assessment for, as and of learning

Your teacher will begin the course with an assessment for learning to determine the needs of individuals in the class as well as the class as a whole. This assessment is not used in your mark. In addition, your teacher will use assessment as learning from time to time to provide you with helpful feedback that can be applied to improve your performance on the final unit tests, projects, and assignments that will be used to calculate your mark. Depending on the nature of the assessment, it may not be used to calculate your final grade.

The marks that appear on your report card are calculated on a mark-to-date basis. For example, the first report card mark will represent achievement on all tasks completed to the cut-off date. Subsequent report card marks will include all work completed from the beginning of the course to the reporting deadline. The final mark for the course will be a cumulative mark for all work completed during the year.
