Adapted from the original poem T'was the night before Christmas

By Clement Clarke Moore

T'was the day before the holidays and all through the place

All the students and staff were excited; they had on their happy face

Rooms and desks were cleaned out, recycling bins overflow

Students eagerly waiting for the 3:30 bell to go

Students were ready for the end of the day

But found there was still energy for the class part-aa

Ms. Kim in the office, Mr. Kennedy in orange vest

We couldn't wait to begin Holiday Fest

Students please look high and look low

Remember to take all of your things home before you go

Look through the lost and found, look at the mess created

If it is here much longer it will surely be donated

Before you go away for two weeks, don't forget the point of the season

Joy, love and giving -- surely the reason

Have a festive time with family, don't take it for granted

Remember there are many who won't get what they wanted

From all of the staff, I wanted to say

Merry Christmas to all and to all a good day!

M. Kennedy
