Principal's Message

Dear Norman Ingram Families,

April has certainly arrived with its usual mix of spring rain and changing temperatures. Looking ahead to next week, it seems we may need to grab an umbrella almost every day. As the weather begins to warm up, we also know that spring at school often means muddy yards, wet shoes, and lots of puddles. A gentle reminder to please send your child with appropriate outdoor clothing and, if possible, an extra pair of socks or a change of clothes in their backpack. It can make a big difference in helping students stay comfortable and ready to learn after outdoor play.

This time of year also reminds us that growth is not always immediate, but it is always possible. Over the past few weeks, I have seen many examples of students showing courage, resilience, and kindness in ways that make us very proud. One student who had been feeling nervous about speaking in front of classmates recently took the brave step of presenting in class with confidence and a big smile. Another wonderful example has been seeing students who had recently been experiencing some friendship challenges begin to rebuild trust, show empathy, and flourish into positive and caring friendships. These everyday moments may seem small, but they reflect important growth in confidence, self-regulation, and community.

As we move further into spring, we will continue encouraging our students to take risks in their learning, solve problems peacefully, and support one another with kindness. Thank you, as always, for your partnership in helping us create a caring, respectful, and welcoming school community.

Warm regards,

Kosta Flegas

Principal
